1. OBJECTIVE: The objective of the proposed project is to obtain a maximum amount of data on the economies of the European Satellites, in terms of their integration with the Soviet economy and particularly in respect to developments in the economic services sector of these economies. Furthermore, it is anticipated that the proposed project will yield data to allow more adequate measurement, absolutely and comparatively, of the economic services sector within the Soviet Bloc economy in its relation to other sectors of that economy. (See Tab A.)

2. ORIGIN AND POLICY GUIDANCE:

a. Origin. The proposed project results from a need developed by ORR's economic research program.

b. Whence proposed. Headquarters.

3. SITUATION: The Office of Research and Reports recognizes that the degree of integration of the European Satellite economies with that of the Soviet Union, and the development within the economies of these Satellites, are of direct and immediate interest to the intelligence community and will continue to be of concern in the formulation of National Intelligence Estimates and in various types of policy planning for some time to come. On-board strength in ORR for conducting the necessary integrated analysis of economic data relating to the Eastern European Satellite economies is currently inadequate and can only be built up over an extended period. The proposed project would provide a method for obtaining, relatively soon, valuable organized information on the subject, and should result in the production of an authoritative study, particularly since [REDACTED] the Eastern European Satellites and their sovietization and because the great bulk of economic information on the European Satellites is available in unclassified sources. This project should provide effective comparisons with other studies on industrialization of backward areas and should assist in the development of economic methodologies necessary to analyze Soviet-type economies. The results of the proposed study are directly applicable to several projects being undertaken in the Office of Research and Reports, particularly Project 40.1, "Development of the Services Sector of the Soviet Economy". Project 40.1 will provide historical time series, economic trends, input requirements, etc., for the services sector; which includes such activities as transportation, internal and external trade, finance, management, etc., and will establish interrelationships with other sectors of the economy of the Soviet Bloc. Thus it is anticipated that the proposed external research project will provide a base for research into more specific economic intelligence problems and thereby be a valuable addition to the research tools of ORR.

[REDACTED]
